Career Opportunities at SLS Select Education

Vacancy: Territory Sales Representative North of England

SLS Select Education are experiencing a period of sustained growth and as a result, we require an experienced Territory Sales Representative for the North of England region specifically the M62 corridor and above including Cumbria and the North East of England. You will be the face of the company selling a broad range of science products and services to schools and colleges in the region. SLS Select Education is a division of Scientific Laboratory Supplies (SLS), the UK's fastest growing scientific supplier.

Experience or knowledge of school science products is highly desirable and so this role may suit a candidate with experience of working as a science technician. Ideally you will have prior sales experience but we are open to candidates looking for a first role in field sales. Commercial, technical and communication skills are all key to this role.

As a member of the SLS Select Education team you must be self-motivated and keen to thrive on the flexibility and ownership of workload we give to our staff. A full driving licence is essential for the role and will consider applicants who wish to work term time only.

If you are interested and would like to join our successful and growing technical sales team please forward your CV to the following address (no agencies please):
